

Memory

sentiment body space object]

Memory sentiment body space object - Dialogues across and between dance and art is an interdisciplinary symposium that emerged from Body Space Object Roundtables at the School of Art and Design at Coventry University. It aims to consider how performative and material practices have articulated the embodied nature of memory and sentiment in relation to objects and space. Where is the common ground between dance and visual art? Does this common ground create a radical space for new thinking, making, performing and writing? How can the different ideas and practices of dance and art add richness to an understanding of memory, sentiment, body, space and object?

Contributions are invited that respond to these questions and address but are not limited to the following themes:

Hand and digital

Materials and making

Memory and loss

Displaced meaning

The body and autobiography

Moving image and the haptic

Dyspraxia and disorientation

Translocality

Virtual and augmented spaces

The intersection of mind and body in acts of dwelling

Permeability and porosity in arts practice
