Technology as second nature in the latest Dots Magazine

Starting this Thursday June 28th, the newest edition of DOTS Digital Art Magazine is available in iTunes. The second issue of Dots reveals the brains behind revolutionary ideas and projects, the daredevils who look further and see infinite possibilities in Art & Technology.

Daan Roosegaarde, Bart Hess, Tarik Barri, and Aaron Koblin are all artists who stand out because of their extraordinary and pioneering projects on the cusp of art and technology. They use technology not only as functionality, but look for ways of seamlessly integrating technology in their work and in their lives, a second nature.

Dots surprises and inspires. Instantly! We've created Dots for real art lovers and for anyone in need of a powerful dose of amazing creativity.

Dots Magazine is an English-language iPad magazine, your international guide through the world of contemporary art and creativity. In addition to the main articles connected by a common theme, Dots Magazine provides you with lots of festival, exhibition, project, company, and website tips in its regular features, Dotspot and World of Art. Dots has also selected two specials that each underlines the theme in its own way. Dots Magazine has challenged itself to push its own boundaries for this second issue. Concept, content, and form have been developed to fit in with the exceptional works.

Need a dose of Dots before June 28th? The first issue of Dots Magazine is and will remain available for free in the Apple iTunes Store:
