

A new way to connect cultures and people: The Nomad Creative Projects

The Nomad Creative Projects is a cultural international initiative with the aim to develop cross-cultural links around the world and showcase projects meeting and sharing experience with foreign cultural actors, thinking on actual topics related to the concept of culture and the presentation of new trends in the field of arts.

It wants to accelerate, catalyse, connect and communicate civil society initiatives in arts and culture rethinking and building the world as an open, inclusive and democratic space. The vision of the Nomad Creative Projects is to offer a platform on which artists and creative cities have the opportunity to present itself in press article, photos and short videos accessible to all audiences.

The project , started in July 2017, has been designed by a Séverine Grosjean, a brilliant French freelance cultural journalist , that after several international experiences, decided to embark and write on new strategies, policies and initiatives aimed at making culture and creativity a driving force for sustainable development and urban regeneration.
