

ART & MUSEUM INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION XCHANGE

The International Exhibition Exchange will take place in Turin on November 7th and 8th 2013. It is the new international marketplace devoted to the world of art, culture, museums and related services.

This event will be many things at a time: a container of ideas, a meeting opportunity, a place for 'connecting?', as well as a lab for development, co-production and trading of projects linked to exhibitions and cultural events.

The International Exhibition Exchange is a unique and unmissable opportunity to get acquainted with:

- the largest international cultural heritage of art, history and culture
- the main world cultural institutions
- the most innovative exhibitions organizers and curators
- professionals and experts in the field

There will be conferences, workshops, one-to-one meetings, cross meetings and exhibition areas: a whole range of events, making these two working days extremely rich in appointments and meeting opportunities for professionals in art and culture.

It is not a fair

It is not a show

It is not a festival

It is a meeting and trading area: a marketplace.

The Art & Museum International Exhibition Xchange will be the meeting place for key players in the field of art, culture, science, museums and related services.

Here are some of the main targets of the event, divided into macro-categories.

By purchasing the registration fee online and accessing the calendar, it is possible to view the Xchange registered and their respective categories.

Venue:] The International Exhibition Exchange will take place at Turin Lingotto Conference Centre.

The Industry and Culture Foundation picked out Turin as the ideal venue to host the first edition of the Art & Museum International Exhibition Exchange: third economic pole of the country and seat of prestigious universities, Turin is the only Italian town having two impressive contemporary art museums, as well as the most active galleries, foundations and organizations engaged in cultural promotion. Because of its history and vocation Turin plays a leading role in art, history and in Italian culture.

The Piedmont's regional capital has a unique geographical position as strategic crossroads between Italy and Europe. Moreover, it is also one of the main railway and road junctions while its international airport connects it with the main cities in the world.

Turin therefore proves to be the ideal meeting venue allowing organizers, curators and investors to engage in productive exchanged during the two planned working days.
