Athens Digital Arts Festival is launching the new era

On 10 July, ADAF Online opens its digital doors. Against the adversity of the time, Athens Digital Arts Festival is evolving, becoming even more creative and develops an Online presence in addition to the main festival. The new, specially designed ADAF platform will be hosting daily for two months, works by artists, which will be available to everyone with just one click.

Online.adaf.gr will contain artworks on demand (available to the public from the beginning of the festival), as well as live streaming events (works that will be shown live, on specific dates and time, most of which, will remain on demand afterwards). Among our streaming events we will host many world premieres!

The surprises continue! For the first time, Athens Digital Arts Festival will present its own awards, ADAF Awards. The public will have the opportunity to vote for their favorite artworks and by the end of the festival (September 10), the most voted artists from each category will be awarded.. Also the voters will be part of a unique draw to win superb technology gifts.

By utilizing the goods that technology provides us in the best possible way, in an era of disconnection, we feed back and unite people through a full of art Online platform! ADAF Online provides the opportunity for everyone to watch the displayed projects, with no restrictions, always from the security of their own space.

All you need to do in order to become part of the ADAF Online experience is to subscribe to online.adaf.gr!
