Call for researcher ? Upcoming NEMO report on climate policies for museums

The Network of European Museum Organisations (NEMO) is looking to hire a researcher who will conduct and compile the research for a report on climate related policies that address museums in the 27 member states of the European Union. The Study should be finalised by 1 September 2023.

Find more details in the call for proposals. Apply by sending a proposal until 31 March.

The Study will contain:

An executive summary of the research; a general introduction to the investigated climate policies and how they relate to museums generally; a compilation of climate related policies addressing museums in Europe (EU-27) on national, regional and local level; a compilation of good examples of museums from different countries implementing and utilizing climate policies in their operations; and a practical guide for museums to utilize and implement climate related policies that address them in their museum work.
