Civic Epistemologies in Granada

Granada recently hosted DH15, a huge event in the field of cultural heritage and digital technology, and Civic Epistemologies could not miss the occasion to be present and to network with other projects.

In the framework of a panel workshop entitled From Digitisation to Preservation, Creative Re-use of Cultural Content and Citizen Participation, the project was presented by Sy Holsinger from EGI.eu who introduced Civic Epistemologies particularly focusing on the societal aspects and tackling the question of how the civic society can participate and engage with the digital transformation of cultural heritage, not just for fun and entertainment, but also to participate in the research activities.
