The Avera McKennan Hospital and University Health Centre in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, has a digital art wall used to display digital art exhibitions to inspire patients and visitors and add a sense of positivity to the centre.

The current exhibition, 'Four Elements', features a wide selection of photography, paintings and digital artwork, displayed on the digital screen in relation with the theme and title of the show.

The Avera McKennan website describes the exhibition in more detail:

"From ancient times, cultures theorized four basic elements provided balance to life's foundation and situations. Area artists share fire's fury, earth's stability, water's serenity and air's originality in juried works in 'Four Elements'."

These generous artists dare you to find the four elements in your everyday life, because to them, life is an enormous canvas, a photograph, a form of medium.

Our theme, 'Four Elements,' encourages viewers to use an attitude of fire, earth, water and air to face the joys and challenges of life."

Venue: The Avera McKennan Hospital
