

European Research & Innovation Days, join the virtual event!

European Research and Innovation Days bring together policymakers, researchers, entrepreneurs and citizens to debate and shape the future of research and innovation in Europe and beyond.

This event, planned on 22-24 September, is the European Commission's annual flagship event and in this crucial year, following an unprecedented global crisis, research and innovation will be even more important to ensure that the transition to a post-corona society is sustainable, inclusive and resilient.

Just before the launch of Horizon Europe, the next research and innovation programme starting in 2021, and an enhanced European Research Area, this event is a unique chance to discuss how research and innovation will benefit the future of Europe. All participants, thanks to interactive sessions, can provide input on how research and innovation policy and funding can help propel Europe's recovery and pave the way to a green, digital and resilient future.
