

Conformance checker reports

Reports created during examinations. These reports may provide feedback to the Suppliers during the Prototyping files and may be helpful investigating errors and other messages from the conformance checkers. Such use should however be considered as a type of ?training?, and consequently, an examination file whose report has been shared with a Supplier can no longer be used as an evaluation file.