

By MetaHeritage: Knowledge Hub and Good Practices call

MetaHeritage is building a shared knowledge ecosystem to showcase innovation at the intersection of cultural heritage, technology, and business models: it now invites to innovators, cultural heritage professionals, and SMEs to contribute to its growing Knowledge Hub, a compendium of good practices born from interregional collaboration, including examples to promote the unique strengths, assets, and resources of different regions, especially the less developed ones, focusing on cultural heritage, digital competences and local expertise. Anyone can contribute through a quick questionnaire: Metaheritage will review and showcase inspiring projects and innovative approaches at the intersection of heritage, technology, and tourism.
