Lumen Prize for Art and Technology 2019: call for entries

Calling all artists engaging with technology
The Lumen Prize for Art and Technology celebrates and promotes artists working with technology globally through its annual juried competition and exhibitions.

Now in its 8th year, The Lumen Prize has already awarded over $70,000 in prize money.
Through Lumen Art Projects, over 45 exhibitions in 15 cities worldwide have been staged, including London, New York, Shanghai, St Petersburg, Beijing, Cardiff and Athens.

Prize Fund in 2019 is $11,000. The 2019 Prizes are:
? Gold Award ($4000)
? Moving Image ($1000)
? Still Image ($1000)
? XR ($1000)
? 3D/Interactive Award ($1000)
? The BCS Artificial Intelligence Award ($1000)
? The Rapoport Award for Women in Art and Technology ($1000)
? Photomonitor Student Prize ($500)
? People's Choice Award ($500)

There is an administration fee of US$48 to enter which covers two entries. Any additional artwork is US$24. As a not-for-profit based in the UK, all entry fees go directly towards the prizes and events programme.

All longlisted artists, finalists and award winners are eligible for Lumen exhibitions, commissions and events.

Closing Date: May 3rd 2019
