

New collaborations of SECReTour with Europeana

SECReTour Network of Common Interest

The SECReTour Network is growing!

Europeana empowers the cultural heritage sector in its digital transformation. It develops expertise, tools and policies to embrace digital change and encourage partnerships that foster innovation. It makes it easier for people to use cultural heritage for education, research, creation and recreation. Its work contributes to an open, knowledgeable and creative society.

Europeana is steward of the Data space for cultural heritage. Together with other data spaces Europeana strives to provide free access to open cultural heritage data for anyone who would like to access or use it. There are many opportunities connection to this data space provides.

Europeana focuses on the tourism audience as an important connection to provide opportunities to battle overtourism, create innovative new tourism experiences, highlight underrepresented destinations, etc.

Furthermore, Europeana is partner in the Deploytour project, which is setting up the Data Space for Tourism, ensuring that there is a robust connection between the Data Space for Cultural Heritage and the Data space for tourism.

You can find out more about Europeana on: <https://www.europeana.eu>]

Follow SECReTour online also on the SECReTour project's website.