PAGODE at Europeana Aggregators Fair

In June 2021 the Europeana Aggregators' Forum and Europeana Foundation held the first ever Aggregators' Fair, and PAGODE had a prominent participation with one ignite talk by Kostas Kostantinidis (Postscriptum) on day one and a dedicated session entitled Behind the scenes of PAGODE: building an aggregation value chain by Antonella Fresa (Promoter), Nata?a Vampelj Suhadolnik and Maja Veseli?, (University of Ljubljana) and Sofie Taes (PHOTOCONSORTIUM) on day two.

At this online web conference, the Europeana Aggregators' Forum opened their virtual doors to cultural heritage professionals and anyone with an interest in high quality, open cultural heritage content. The exciting programme gave participants the opportunity to listen to inspiring speakers, join panel discussions, take in training webinars and ask questions of the people working in aggregation. It was a great opportunity to find out more about how high quality cultural heritage content is being made accessible to new audiences through Europeana, and how institutions can get involved.
