

The web page of the UNCHARTED Central Event is available

The UNCHARTED project is excited to launch its Central Event which will take place in London on the 12th and 13th January 2023 organised under the co-ordination of the Goldsmiths University of London.

A dedicated page has been published on the project website and all information on the event will be made available here.

The event will involve the entire consortium, project advisory board members and other invited stakeholders to explore, reflect and debate around the conference topic: 'Tensions in societal values of culture: can value conflicts be managed or mitigated?'

It will include:

a one-day public debate to present the findings of the project to a broader audience. It is designed to encourage critique and reflection from cultural practitioners, policymakers, administrators, and researchers to enrich our understanding and analysis of core value conflicts in the production, administration, and consumption of culture.

the second co-creation workshop of the UNCHARTED project offers the team an opportunity to reflect on the experience of the last three years and develop practical approaches for the next stage of the project
