UK-Ireland Collaboration in the Digital Humanities, preparatory workshop

AHRC Arts and Humanities Research Council in UK is pleased to announce a call for participants to attend a workshop on ?UK-Ireland Collaboration in the Digital Humanities?. The workshop will take place in Dublin, from 22-23 October and bring together leading experts from both countries to explore the current environment of digital humanities and opportunities for collaborative research between the UK and Ireland in the field.

The workshop will launch a new research programme focused on UK-Ireland collaboration in the Digital Humanities for which the AHRC has received funding from the UKRI Fund for International Collaboration. It will play a key role in informing the thematic priorities to be taken forward through the programme and embedded within future collaborative activity ? it is anticipated that a number of funding calls informed by the workshop will be launched shortly afterwards.

The workshop and wider programme will be delivered in partnership with the Irish Research Council (IRC).

Expressions of interest to participate in the workshop are invited from UK-based researchers from HEIs and IROs who meet AHRC's standard eligibility requirements.

Applicants should be able to demonstrate how their research interests support the vision and themes outlined in the guidance document. Deadline for applications: 26 September 2019.

EOI Application link: UK-Ireland Collaboration in the Digital Humanities- Workshop EoI form.

For more information:

https://ahrc.ukri.org/funding/apply-for-funding/current-opportunities/uk-ireland-collaboration-in-the-digital-humanities-workshop-eoi-call/