

Upcoming Conference: The Future of Roma Cultural Heritage

The conference, organized by the European Roma Institute for Arts and Culture (ERAC) and hosted by the Romani Studies Program of the Central European University (CEU RSP), will take place with the expert contribution of REACH (project theme H2020-SC6-CULT-COOP-2016-2017, EU Research and Innovation Programme, Horizon 2020, Re-designing Access to European Cultural Heritage).

The event will introduce ERAC to the audience, its mission and philosophy, and will invite participants to actively contribute to the dialogue focused on the main question 'the future of Roma cultural heritage' contemplating possible futures and striving to shape the fields in desired directions.

With ERAC's headquarters and main office opening in Berlin in Oct 2017, ERAC initiates its international activities with the International Cultural Outreach Program. Within the framework of the program, which encompasses seven events in major European cities, it is now celebrating the large network of Roma individuals and organizations working in the fields of arts and culture.

The conference will be held on February 8, 2018, 15.00h-20.00h at CEU Auditorium A 1051 Budapest, Nador u. 15.

Those who are interested to attend the event have to confirm their participation and RSVP before January 2018 at:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSfHm_VMu0PgByENtVWYXhZjLq9J-UAQDcKh3hCtmXEC7UcxSA/viewform

To read more about the program and the organizers of the conference:

<https://eriac.nobadkid.org/>