

Connect. Collaborate. Create.

Save the date!

October 19-21, 2023 in Paris

Dear Colleagues,

Your voice and input will be of utmost value at the upcoming “Connect. Collaborate. Create.” conference on October 19-21, 2023 in Paris, at Aubervilliers, Campus Condorcet. Registration information is coming soon.

About the conference:

Jointly coordinated by two Horizon 2020 projects, COESO and PRO-Ethics, this interactive conference will bridge key European communities to:

- activate participatory research and citizen science involving the social sciences and humanities
- foster ethical participatory approaches to research funding

Who should attend:

- Research Funder Organisations (RFOs)
- Citizen Science practitioners and supporters, including:
 - (SSH) Academic and professional researchers
 - Civil society professionals and organisations (e.g. journalists, artists, social services practitioners, NGOs dedicated to societal issues, social enterprises)
 - Engaged community members, citizen scientists and scholars
 - Open research infrastructure representatives
 - Librarians
 - Country-based and European citizen science platform and network coordinators
 - Science shops coordinators and staff members
- Policy makers
- Research managers
- Research ethics committee members
- Research integrity body members
- Researchers from academia and the private sector

While the conference has a strong focus on the social sciences and humanities, researchers and citizen science practitioners from all backgrounds are welcome! We'll send out another email soon with registration information. Keep an eye on the COESO and PRO-Ethics websites, which will soon be updated with more details.

Warm regards,

Alessia Smaniotto (COESO) and Stefanie Schuerz (PRO-Ethics)
